

The Kindness Curriculum

COLLABORATION

Collaboration is essential in almost all aspects of life – in the playground; classroom; families and in every work environment! Collaboration is evident when a group of people come together and contribute their expertise for the benefit of a shared objective or project. Meaningful collaboration promotes the building of peer relationships and fosters social interactions. By involving students in diverse discussions, it enables them to understand different perspectives, and to give and receive feedback. Successful collaboration and team work requires communication (verbal, nonverbal, and written); active listening; social awareness, turn-taking; problem solving; respect and cooperative spirit.

Trust is also central to successful collaboration activities as peers take risks together. Online platforms can support virtual collaboration providing children and students with opportunities to connect with peers locally and around the world learning to use digital tools responsibly. The Kindness Curriculum activities sourced and designed provide opportunities for children and students to engage in tasks that require them to work together as they tackle new concepts, problem solve and form new understandings.
